DATA PRIVACY CONSENT FORM

I consent to the collection, use and processing of personal data relating to me for administration and other related purposes in connection with participating in Accenture Hackathon. For the purposes of this Consent Form, “personal data” shall be as defined in the Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (Act 26 of 2012).

In particular, I consent to:

- (a) the collection, use and processing of personal data about me to the limited extent necessary for Accenture’s administrative and other related purposes in connection with Accenture Hackathon;
- (b) the collection, use and processing of my personal data in the MEDICAL CONSENT FORM for Accenture’s [administrative and contingency purposes]; and
- (c) the transfer of personal data relating to me, both within Singapore and worldwide, to:
 - (i) any other employees and offices of Accenture’s worldwide organization or its affiliates which may be located anywhere in the world where Accenture’s worldwide organization does business from time to time;
 - (ii) any other person under a duty of confidentiality to Accenture.

The references to personal information “relating to me” or “about me” include references to information about third parties such as my next-of-kin which I provide to Accenture for administrative and other related purposes in connection to my participation in Accenture Hackathon. I warrant that I have got the consent from all third parties to disclose their personal data to Accenture for the related purposes. The reference to “sensitive personal data” is to various categories of personal data identified by some data privacy laws as requiring special treatment. These categories comprise personal data about racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious or other similar beliefs, trade union membership, physical or mental health, sexual or criminal record. Passport photos may also constitute “sensitive personal data”. A small amount of the personal data relating to me which Accenture holds may constitute “sensitive personal data” under the above definition (e.g. my passport photo and my nationality). Whilst I consent to Accenture continuing to use any sensitive personal data it already holds for administrative and other related purposes connected with my participation in Accenture Hackathon, it is Accenture’s policy to only collect and use further “sensitive personal data” when I have given my explicit consent. In normal circumstances of my participation in Accenture Hackathon, collection of such “sensitive personal data” may not be necessary.

I understand that I have the right to check whether Accenture holds personal data about me and, where it does, the right to request access to such personal data and to request Accenture to correct or delete any such personal data which is inaccurate.

I will treat personal data, to which I have access in the course of Accenture Hackathon in accordance with Accenture policies and procedures. In particular, I will not use any such data other than in connection with and to the extent necessary for the purposes of my participation in Accenture Hackathon.
